

Snow and Liquorice Allsorts

Snow and Liquorice Allsorts is a true account of Jennifer Jones life between leaving Essex in 1968 at the age of twenty and her arrival in Wales at the end of 1976. Her journey began with a short stay in a haunted house; then for a time she lived, worked and partied in London. Then one day she and her friend Katy agreed they needed a change of scene. They made a decision with a map and a pin, and so began many wonderful years by the coast in North Devon. Jennifer's life took another abrupt turning when she accepted a dare to become a crew member of a yacht. It was a magical experience, but the skipper missed the tide one day, and now Jennifer lives in the Welsh Valleys with her husband. She spends her days baking and gardening, knits for charity and writes a column for her local newspaper.
