

Lady In The Hood: An Unlikely Crusader for the Inner City

Author Dorothy Moore was born into a family of wealth and social prominences with all the trapping of the East Coast elite: a nanny, private schools, and European vacations. Eventually she found a dynamic personal relationship with Christ that forever transformed her elitist attitude into one of a true servant that led to the establishment of Reconciliation Outreach, an inner-city rehabilitation program providing a safe haven for the homeless and needy in East Dallas that has impacted hundreds of lives. Readers will be inspired by one womans journey from having everything on the East Coast to risking it all in the Midwest to make a difference in a drug- and gang-infested East Dallas neighborhood.
