

They Made A Name For Themselves: A Compilation of Notable Jewish People

In this book you will learn about the amazing accomplishments Jews throughout the world have had on American history and culture. Considering throughout history Jews have been persecuted and severely limited in where and how they lived, it is a credit to their ability to both persevere and thrive. Get to know some of America's most influential figures in Allan Katz's compelling debut, They Made a Name for Themselves: A History of Jews. Many people are simply unaware of the diverse contributions that Jewish Americans have made throughout history in fields that range from entertainment, fashion, and art, to sports, science, and history. With access to the book's easy reference points and encyclopedic format, readers will learn about some of the Jewish people's most profound contributions to the United States. This includes Ossie Schectman, who made the first basket in the NBA; Albert Einstein, who developed the theory of relativity; Haym Solomon, who helped finance the American Revolutionary War; and Emma Lazarus, who wrote the poem featured on the Statue of Liberty's pedestal. Readers will discover the wonder and inspiration that fueled these great citizens as well as how they inspired others.
